

Photos of our current driveway with proposed additions in dark and light red (light red areas were poured before the project was halted). These photos show views from the house level looking up towards the street and from the street looking down toward the house.

